Replying to @NLRB

As proposed, two or more employers would be deemed joint employers if they "share or codetermine those matters governing employees' essential terms and conditions of employment" such as wages, benefits, scheduling, discipline, health and safety, supervision, and work rules.

The proposed rule seeks to ensure that the Board's legal rules for deciding which employers should engage in collective bargaining serve the goals of the National Labor Relations Act.

This proposed rule would also bring stability to this complex area of law by restoring longstanding Board precedent and conforming the Board's rules to guidance from U.S. Court of Appeals for the D.C. Circuit.
